

Big Time Spenders

And you thought 2 full pages was a lot? Last week's Valley News had over 3 full pages of advertising for the Cohocton incumbents, including 1 full-page color ad with their obscure "Adopted Budget for 2008" (before the election, no less), another full-page color hatchet job on Judi Hall, and several smaller ads for UPC Wind, etc. After spending more than $15,000 in Valley News ads over the past 18 months, our UPC team is blazing toward the finish line by spending another $800 last week alone. And what do the incumbents want us to know about? How they propose to spend our money next year!

Do our incumbents have anything but money on their minds?

- Well, yes, they have wind turbines. Getting them up as fast as possible before the court can act and even before a valid PILOT agreement is in place. Can you believe that all this spending and talk about more spending is still just based on promises?

- What can an ordinary citizen do? Come out on November 6 and vote Row E for the Reform Cohocton Slate:

Judith Hall, Town Supervisor

Cesare Taccone, Town Councilman

Stephen H. Trude, Town Councilman

Dr. Frank "Stoner" Clark, Town Justice

Bonnie Palmiter, Town Assessor

Rebecca Conard, Town Assessor

Blair Hall, Town Clerk

This Tuesday Cohocton voters have the opportunity to elect a team of leaders who haven't been bought by UPC Wind, a group of men and women who are prepared to ask the tough questions and get our Town back on track again. Review the Reform Cohocton platform and slate of candidates at www.cohocton.net and then go to the polls and vote for leaders who aren't dazzled by UPC's money.
